Fellow Warriors,

Appropriately, on the 14th of July this year, WND published a piece authored by ViDol's Executive Director and MO State Representative, Darin Chappell, entitled "America is Not a Democracy - Thankfully!" This is another critical but little-known or understood weapon being employed by the Delusional Left in this genuine War of Good vs. Evil for the destruction of America and the whole future of Humanity.

The Left is masterful at weaponizing words, and the Right is accomplished at taking those words and committing suicide with them.

How can we ever hope to save our Republic (Rule of Law) when so many have been led to believe America is a Democracy (Mob Rule)?

The only truth I have heard the Left exclaim is, "The Right wants to destroy our Democracy." You bet we do; a Democracy will always end as a Monarchy or oligarchy.

CALL TO ACTION - never let a friend, colleague, speaker, or media personality, et al, refer to America as a Democracy - uncorrected.

LIKEWISE: never let them call the Democrat Party the Democratic Party. There is nothing democratic about them!

WORDS MATTER, AND HOW WE SAY WORDS MATTERS.

FOR THE SAKE OF THE FUTURE, READ THIS ONE!

Exclusive: Darin Chappell decries fact most of us don't understand the genius of a republic

We are not a democracy.

While that is obviously the case, and no one with any real understanding of America's constitutionally prescribed governmental form denies it, the statement is now more controversial than at any time during our life. Nevertheless, that doesn't change the fact that we are not a democracy.

Furthermore, we were never intended to be so. The writings of the founders are clear that the states may be democratic in their functions, especially at the local level. Justice Louis D. Brandeis even referred to them as "Laboratories of Democracy" wherein doctrines may be seen as experiments to be adopted (or avoided), depending on their efficacy, but the national government has always been and was ever intended to be, one that presides over a republic.

This is more than simply a pedantic call to refer to constitutional premises by their constitutional terminology. It is imperative to understand the necessary distinction between the mob rule of a democracy in opposition to the rule of law within a republic.

Countless words have been written in defining and contrasting the two types of government, and we will not belabor those distinctions here. However, a critical result in blurring the line between them is often overlooked. What expectations are propagated within the populace when the media, educators, politicians, and the average person consistently misidentify the basic structure of the American government?

The results are a never-ending call for "fairness" as it relates to popular ideology. If a majority, or more often a vocal minority is unhappy with a governmental outcome, immediately come the calls for abandoning the basic components of our republic.

Advertisement - story continues below

If a president is elected with less than a majority of popular votes, clearly, the Electoral College should be abandoned. The smallest of states has equal representation in the Senate; therefore, that august body should be disbanded, obviously. Roe v. Wade has been overturned, so the six conservative Supreme Court justices ought to be impeached, or the Court packed to the point of their irrelevance.

These are not examples of hysterical fear-mongering from the right but actual recent suggestions from leaders on the left. These ideas, and others, have been set forth in order to establish "fairness" because we cannot, we are told, tolerate unfairness in a "democracy" such as ours. One would suppose this could be true, were we not a republic – but we are.

Let us stop using the word "democracy" in such an erroneous fashion. Beyond being incorrect, it fosters the false and dangerous idea that the whim of the majority ought to be law, even when national pendulum swings over the centuries have shown us time and again just how fickle public opinion can be.

Were everyone properly informed on the absolute uniqueness of our American republic, not only would the rash expectations of the ill-informed be quieted, but perhaps a sincere appreciation of the precious balance between the national and state governments might be reacquired? Maybe even a sense of patriotic pride could be re-instilled for living in a land where neither the tyranny of an individual nor the majority can usurp our rights and liberties.

Possibly, we might even begin to show gratitude for a nation built from the genius of men who saw all too clearly just how dangerous a democracy would have been to all seeking freedom.

So, I say again, we are not a democracy ... thankfully.

Most are aware of Alinsky's Rule for Radicals; however, few are aware of the eight necessary levels of Control attributed to him. Essentially everything the Progressive Left (Post Modernists) are doing today, plays to one, or more of these powers. All 8 are in play.

How to create a social state by Saul Alinsky:

"There are eight levels of control that must be obtained before you are able to create a social state.

1. Healthcare – Control healthcare and you control the people.
2. Poverty – Increase the Poverty level as high as possible; poor people are easier to control and will not fight back if you are providing everything for them to live.
3. Debt – Increase the debt to an unsustainable level. That way you are able to increase taxes, and this will produce more poverty.
4. Gun Control – Remove the ability to defend themselves from the government. That way you are able to create a police state.
5. Welfare – Take control of every aspect of their lives (Food, Housing, and Income).
6. Education – Take control of what people read and listen to – take control of what children learn in school.
7. Religion – Remove the belief in God from the government and schools.
8. Class Welfare – Divide the people into the wealthy and the poor. This will cause more disconnect, and it will be easier to take from (tax) the wealthy with the support of the poor."

"History does not entrust the care of freedom to the weak or timid."
